Banjo Attack!

Instrument maker and musician Mac Traynham is a regular at the country store. Mac is responsible for teaching and encouraging many old time musicians. Last time he played a Friday Night set he brought along a group of his students—so at times there were as many as five banjos backing up Mac's dance band. Our local music is a precious thing, and it's always wonderful to see more people honing their skills and to have people like Mac take time to pass on their deep knowledge and love of our traditions.
